Semi-Final Round Registration Costs

The International Biology Competition allows students around the world to go beyond the standard curriculum in biology. This educational opportunity comes with costs for human resources, technical infrastructure, evaluation, materials and more.

Our sponsors cover some of these expenses, but we ask participants to cover this year's Semi-Final Round registration costs of 12 EUR to make IBioC possible on an international level. There are no other costs for participants in this year's competition. Financial aid, including partial and full waivers, is available for socio-economically disadvantaged participants: https://ibioc.org/financialaid

Participants of the Qualification Round who qualify for the Semi-Final Round and would like to continue cover the registration costs.

Do I have to pay if I pass the Qualification Round?

No. If you pass the Qualification Round, you are free to decide whether you register for the Semi-Final Round. You always receive a certificate for your result in the Qualification Round.

Are there any other costs or fees in other rounds?

No. The Semi-Final Round registration costs are the only costs for participants in this year's competition.

Paying the Registration Costs

We inform all successful participants of the Qualification Round about the registration for the Semi-Final Round (deadline: Tuesday, 7 September 2027). The registration costs are paid before the Semi-Final Round starts; we accept common payment methods (for example card, PayPal, Google Pay, Apple Pay, Alipay) and most currencies. Teachers and groups can use the group payment option.
